Emergenetics International – Europe Partners with Greenshoot^{HR}

Emergenetics International, an organizational consulting company specializing in workplace assessments, has partnered with Greenshoot^{HR}, an HR consultancy firm from the Netherlands with expertise in recruitment, assessments, HR-tools, team assessments and leadership development.

As an Emergenetics-certified organization, Greenshoot^{HR} has access to a full slate of employee development tools all based on Emergenetics' distinctive left-brain/right-brain thinking and behavioral approach. "We are thrilled that Greenshoot^{HR} will be an integral part of our network, as it is clear that their approach to advancing their workforce is in line with our own," said Emergenetics International Founder and CEO, Dr. Geil Browning.

Emergenetics International has stringent standards for Certification, ensuring that the small cadre of elite trainers throughout the world represents the highest quality information and value to individuals and client organizations. As part of this process, Certification is a continual process, including an intensive 3½-day training session, a 3-month ongoing support plan and continuing education throughout the Emergenetics/Greenshoot^{HR} partnership.

With a strong focus on employee learning and development, Greenshoot^{HR} and Emergenetics International – Europe are looking to expand the way individuals and departments look at themselves and others.

Emergenetics International – Europe CEO Ron Byron underscored the impact that Greenshoot^{HR} will have in opening the European market for Emergenetics products and consulting. "Organizations throughout Europe and specifically in the Benelux region will now be able to utilize new avenues of the expertise that John, Mygell and the Greenshoot^{HR} team bring to training, development and talent management."

MOVING THINKING FORWARD.
